

New Adult Fiction

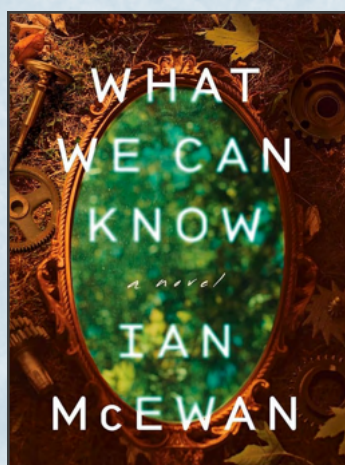

73-year-old Sybil is in the winter of her life and has always made sense of the world through writing letters. Through this epistolary novel we see how she comes to terms with her past and present and learns forgiveness.

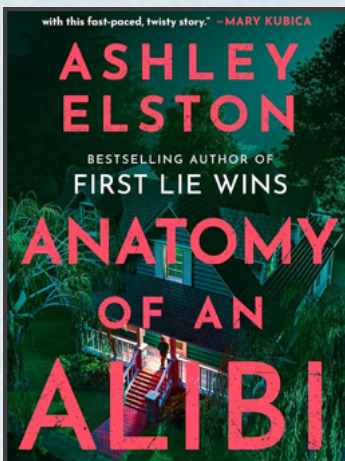

In this story of intense friendship and grit, two down-and-out teens escape the hopelessness of their lives and chase a different future through rock climbing.

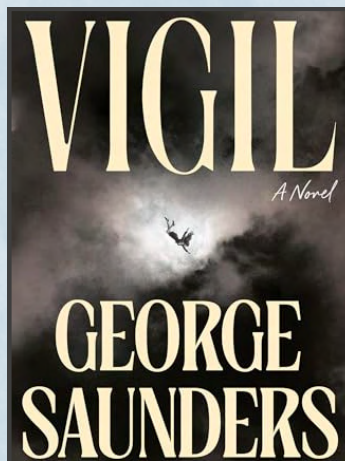

A group of astronauts discover the Earth they've returned to is not the home they left in this sci-fi thriller. They must uncover what happened during their journey & decide how far they'll go to return to their normal lives.

In a future world flooded after a nuclear accident, Thomas Metcalfe searches for a lost poem from 2014. A clue leads to a hidden story of love and violent crime that upends what he believed about those closest to him.

Camille Bayliss seems to have a perfect life, but she suspects her husband Ben is hiding secrets. Aubrey Price swaps places to uncover the truth, but when Ben is found murdered, only one has an alibi. One misstep could ruin it all.

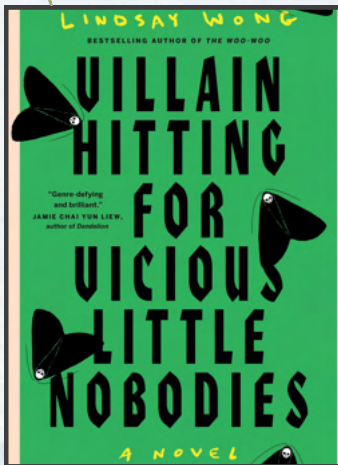

After her own death, Jill "Doll" Blaine has guided 343 souls into the afterlife. But when she hurtles down to escort her newest charge, she discovers he is unlike any she's encountered before.

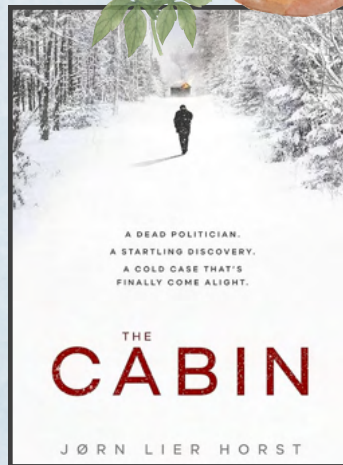

New Tecumseth
Public Library

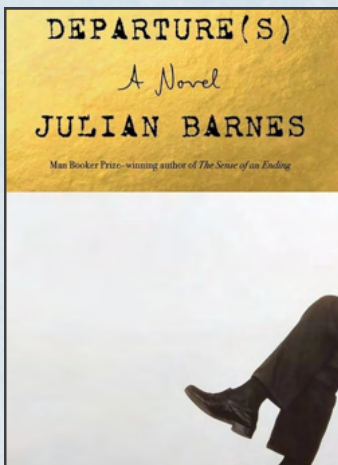

New Adult Fiction

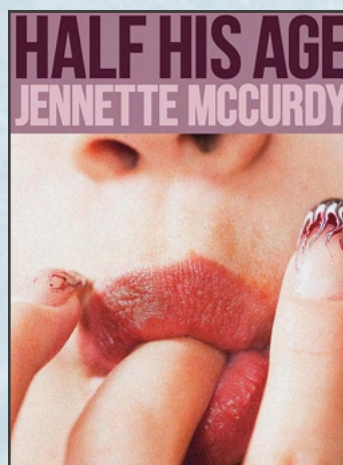

To save her family, Locinda signs her life away in the Chinese tradition of corpse marriage. As she awaits a rich undead bridegroom, her past entwines with her witch grandmother's, proving no one can outrun their ghosts.

15 years after Simon Meier vanished, a politician dies & millions in cash are found in his cabin. Chief Inspector Wisting suspects a link, drawing him into a dark underworld—and a truth closer to home than he expected.

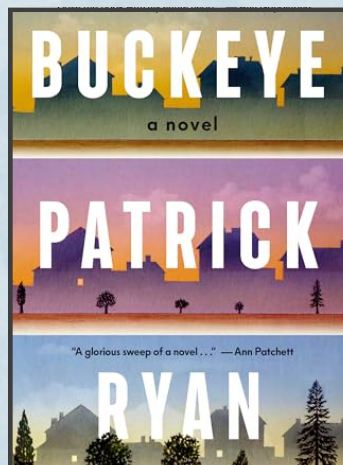

On the occasion of his eightieth birthday, one of our great novelists delivers a playful and profound work about memory, love, and the writer's endgame.

A sad, funny, thrilling novel about sex, consumerism, class, desire, loneliness, the internet, rage, intimacy, power, and the (oftentimes misguided) lengths we'll go to in order to get what we want.

Five years after her husband Owen vanished, Hannah Hall and her stepdaughter Bailey have rebuilt their lives. When Owen reappears, they must go on the run, risking everything for safety and a second chance.

In Bonhomie, a stolen moment binds Cal Jenkins, unable to serve in the war, to Margaret Salt, hiding her past. Years later, their secret ripples through both families, forcing them to confront who they are & what the future holds.

